

World Books Day/ Copyright Day

Every year on April 23, World Book and Copyright Day is marked to encourage reading, especially among the young generation. This day celebration was started by the United Nations Educational, Science and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) to counter the decreased value placed on reading due to the abundance of information available from numerous sources. This day's main aim is to inspire readers everywhere to make reading a habit. The main goal is to promote reading as the major source of knowledge and recreation.

Celebration of "World Book Day" with Author's Talk

The "World Book Day" was jointly celebrated by the PU Libraries and the Faculty of Library & Information Science on April 24, 2023, in the central seminar hall. Mr. Navid Daffuwala and Mr. Tirth Patel are invited as special guests for this event. Both are alumni of PU and authors. The paths that both authors took to become authors are shared. The winners of the "Blind Date with Book" competition, which was held on April 10 and 11, 2023, also receive their prizes.

www.paruluniversity.ac.in/libraries

Parul University Libraries in coloration with Faculty of Library and Information Science had also celebrate the World book day on 24th April 2023, on that occasion two authors has been invited for the author's talk. Mr. Navid Daffuwala and Mr. Tirth Patel both are the alumni of the Parul University. The programme begins with a prayer and the lighting of the lamp. Dr. Vinod Patel, Managing Trustee, and Dr. Dhavalben D. Bhatt, Chief Librarian and Dean (FLS), welcome the two authors. In their respective books, "The Age of Us" by Mr. Navid Daffuwala and "Cyber Warfare" by Mr. Tirth Patel, respectively, the authors described their experiences.

Following the author's talk, all of the dignitaries distributed the winners' prizes and certificates to those who participated in the "Blind Date with Book" competition.

Following the session, Dr. Vinod Patel Sir, Chief Librarian Dr. Dhavalben Bhatt, all Winners, all Participants, and the entire lovely audience received tokens of appreciation from Mrs. Arpita Pandit, Librarian at the School of Pharmacy, Parul University, for coming to the event and taking part.

