(08)

Terrorism and Fundamentalism are on the doorsteps of India. A recent report published in the New York Times has been widely reported in the Indian dailies. It describes what is happening in Swat Valley, a picturesque resort about 100 miles from Pakistan's capital Islamabad. This is not far from Kashmir. In the Swat Valley, the rule and diktat of the Taliban prevails. Every night local Taliban leaders announce on the Radio the names of the people the Taliban have recently killed for violating their decrees and those they plan to kill. Many on the list flee overnight or they would be punished by a lashing or even a beheading.

"Un-Islamic" activities include allowing girls to attend schools, watching cable television, singing and dancing or criticizing the Taliban. The Taliban fighters roam through the Swat Valley intimidating the population. A Taliban commander directed 50 officials and dignitaries including lawmakers, the local mayor, elders and members of provincial and national assemblies to attend his "Court". Their absence would mean that they would be targeted.

Last year several police officials were killed and wounded and some of them put advertisements in newspapers renouncing their jobs so the Taliban will not kill them.

There is no 'Rule of Law' - there are no civil liberties- there is no freedom of expression - there is no safety from organized terror.

1. What do "Un-Islamic" activities include ?
2. Where is Swat-Valley located ?
3. Who attend the court of Taliban commander ?
4. What happens to those who are unable to flee overnight ?
